

Honours program – Personal route Kaelin Staats

Learning outcomes:

1. The student shows authentic behavior
 - Commitment
 - Enthusiasm
 - Connection
2. The student is enterprising (entrepreneurship)
 - Guts
 - Initiative
 - Decisive
3. The student makes learning behavior visible
 - Growing up
 - Development
 - Learning preferences
4. The student dares to experiment
 - Guts
 - Decisiveness
 - Initiative
 - Decisively original
 - Creative

Goals:

1. Shape personal/professional identity
2. Prepare and run an activity
 - a. Based on what is being learned.

Individual Trajectory

Starting situation :

- Professional attitude:
 - o Organized and structure
 - o Understanding of cultural differences
 - o Understanding of varying work ethics
 - o Competent, remain teachable because knowledge is power!
 - o Good communication skills
 - o Integrity
- Pro-active behaviour:
 - o Integrate with other people
 - o Taking the lead in projects
 - o Hard worker
 - o Giving practices in order to help other people, try to think of what they need

Goals

- Let my network grow, connect with people from different working areas
- Further develop skills for my professional attitude
- Enhance myself with knowledge outside of school
- Give more attention to what I like to improve, for example photography.
- Learn how to make decisions
- Find out what I really want.

Personal route within the Honours program

My personal route within the Honours program isn't one route which I want to take, but are multiple roads going different ways but in the end coming together. That is because at this moment, I'm trying to find out what I really want to do and what I really like but that isn't that obvious yet.

During the honours program I want to let my network grow. I want to do this by going to conferences, events and following webinars/lectures that are in some way sports related. I will start with this goal in December in Italy. For the EnRoute project, in which school participates, I won a trip to Padua (Italy) where I am going to represent the Hanze together with a Sport Studies Alumni. But also in November, we have one networking event during the West Ham United week where I want to connect with new people. Letting my network grow, will start with going to these kinds of events.

During the honours program I want to further develop my professional attitude. This is connected to letting my network grow, but will also be improved by showing the real me at my internship. In this case, I can receive real feedback and work on that.

Enhance myself with more knowledge is also something I want to achieve during the honours program. This will be done true the different Punch Card labs, but also taking action in learning things that I find interesting. This can be done by reading books, following lectures/webinars and connections.

Sports photography is something that I want to improve and learn during the honours program. I really like to make photo's, specifically sports photos. I think I can improve this by following some courses, but also by just doing it. With that, I mean that I can be the photographer of events that my fellow students organize for example.

But my main goal during the honours program is finding out what I really want. For now, I like so many parts of sports that I don't know which side I want to focus on for the future. Maybe I will find out during the honours program that my focus will be on the economic part of sports, or more on the health part of sport. But maybe I will also find out during the program, by learning in multiple different areas during the honours program, that where I am right now is just fine. That I can combine the different areas of sports or that I can arrange something for that. For example being a lifestyle coach or sports manager, but also being a photographer at events.

In this way, I don't know yet what kind of individual project fits for me during the honours program, because my interests are so spread out. By talking to my fellow students, my honours coach and my sports studies coach I hope I can come up with an individual project soon.